A Message from the Editor

In this 1951 issue of the CATAMOUNT we have attempted to portray Western Carolina Teachers College as a factory—a factory engaged in producing teachers for the public schools of America. To what degree we have succeeded or to what extent we have failed, that is for you to judge.

We are for the major part a new staff, lacking in experience but abundant in willingness. Quite naturally, in our work we have offended some and pleased others. To those who we offended, our apologies; those pleased, our gratitude.

Many long hours, many frayed nerves, and many dark moments have gone into the publication of this annual. But excelling all are the pleasant experiences. It was fun for us. May it provide enjoyment for you.

Charlie West

DEDICATION

We have laughed with you, talked with you, and learned with you. Even as our parents and our teachers did before us. For twenty-five years you have served us and Western North Carolina well.

You have worked hard to preserve tradition at Western Carolina Teachers College and, in so doing, have become a part of that tradition—the bridge between the post-pioneering period when you arrived and the period of expansion we are now entering.

Your lively sense of humor and understanding nature have taught us much we would never have learned from the textbooks. For this we are grateful.

So, during your silver anniversary of teaching here, we take the greatest pleasure in dedicating this annual to you, MR. JOHN S. SEYMOUR.

WCTC ADDS GRADUATE WORK

Another milestone on the road to higher education has been reached by Western Carolina Teachers College with the announcement by President Paul A. Reid that the College is adding a graduate department to its curriculum. Since its founding in 1889, the school has evolved from a more-or-less "prep" school, to a junior college, to 1929 when it became a four-year college with the authority to grant the bachelor's degree, and now to a graduate school!

The program will begin with the first summer session of 1951. Study leads to the degree of Master of Arts in Education. With the addition of the graduate department WCTC takes another step forward on its program to provide Western North Carolina with more and better trained teachers. The department is designed primarily to improve the proficiency of the teachers and to prepare them more adequately for their chosen areas of service.

The program will temporarily be carried on only during the summer schools but plans are to make it a part of the regular school year offerings.

In the fall of 1949 under the chairmanship of Dr. Rosser H. Taylor, a committee composed of college faculty members began a study of the possibilities of adding such a department and drew up the program. The announcement of the installation of the graduate program came after more than a year's study and research by that body.

Members of the committee are Dr. W. A. Ashbrook, Dean W. E. Bird, Dr. A. K. Hinds, Dr. C. D. Killian, President Paul A. Reid, Dr. H. P. Smith, Dr. Rosser H. Taylor, and Dr. W. Newton Turner.

Our President Speaks . . .

While Western Carolina Teachers College trains young men and young women for service in fields other than teaching in the public schools, yet the primary function of the College is teacher training for the schools of the State, particularly Western North Carolina. In a sense the College may be looked upon as a modern factory engaged in turning out teachers for a modern school system.

The institution endeavors to meet fully this responsibility. Modern facilities, such as buildings, equipment, and instructional materials, are essential to turn out a modern up-to-date product. This modern product should be trained in the use of the most modern techniques and methods of teaching.

Western Carolina Teachers College is rapidly being provided with the most modern facilities to be found on any college campus. In fact, the College will soon be able to boast about the best buildings and equipment to be found among the small colleges of the South. Well-trained instructional personnel provide the teacher training program with techniques and methods of teaching just as modern as may be found among similar institutions throughout America.

These comparisons are not made in a boastful spirit; rather that students may have more pride and appreciation of the advantages offered at Western Carolina Teachers College. Despite present advantages, we must continue to grow and increase in the opportunities for better teacher training service to our beloved State of North Carolina.

The last touch of paint has been applied, the product has been polished, the veneer is complete, all that remains is the stamp of approval on June 4, 1951. Then look out high schools! Another crew of Cullowhee teachers are coming.

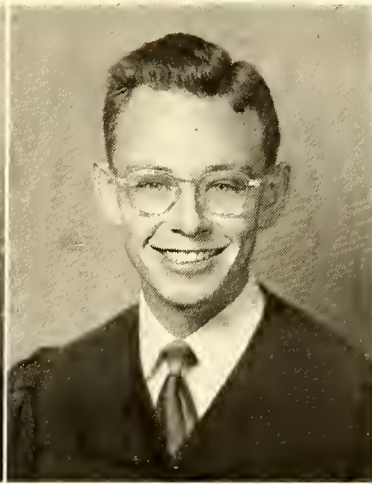

It wasn't too bad after the first three months and by the time we finished the sophomore year we really had it made. The junior year breezed by. Then before we knew it, June 4, 1951, was in our sights. Bless it!

We had a few headaches this year: raising money for the class gift, publishing an annual, presenting a chapel program, practice teaching, and being dignified. But it was worth it.

As the production program on the campus grows and expands, so does the class of '52. The blueprints of our college life were drawn our freshman year; the goals and ideals, determined; the foundations of study, laid.

A frame-work of clubs and social activities gradually built up during this past, and our sophomore year. Our interest in college life expanded. The finishing touches on the 1948 Freshman Class are near and June of 1952 will see us turned upon the market.

We are the Sophomores. We may not be learned and sophisticated, but we've almost finished two years of college, and will soon be Juniors. Our first year was a difficult one; we studied hard and gave a chapel program. But this year has been easier, and now that we're over the hump we are looking forward to our last two.

September of 1950 saw the arrival of a new shipment of raw material—the class of '54. The first few months were spent in grading and preparation for the four-year assembly line. Then began the dizzy whirl of processing—clubs, athletics, all phases of college life.

Well, the first stage of the process is over. We can no longer be called raw material; after all, there are just three more steps.

The 1951

An inexperienced staff, two good advisors, a lot of hard work, and financial problems highlighted the 1951 CATAMOUNT. Things worked out though. The staff gained experience, the advisors remained good, the work was fun, and, curiously enough, the financial problems were more in the mind than on the paper. Here it is!

CAROLINIAN

Perhaps the most active of all the extra-curricular organizations on the campus is the staff of the Western Carolinian. Composed of students who get no compensation other than the joy of creating, the group publishes a newspaper every two weeks.

There was quite a bit of mix-up in the management this year. Hale Bryson, elected editor in the spring of 1950, resigned just prior to the Christmas holidays. Bob Failing was then elected editor-in-chief and served the remainder of the year.

The staff was under the sponsorship of Mrs. Mabel Crum who resumed the position after a lapse of two years.

STUDENT

HERBERT L. HYDE
President

The Student Senate is the voice of the students in the Student-Faculty Government. The responsibilities of the Senate are numerous and varied. Included are the expenditure of student activity fees, the supervision of elections, the initiation of all legislation for the student government, the planning and conducting of orientation week and the supervision of all club activities.

Formerly disciplinary cases were taken before the Senate, but since the fall of 1950 that power has been transferred to the "Temporary Court". Composed of six senators and six faculty members, the court is the highest branch of our government's judicial system.

Hyde and other delegates represented Western Carolina at the North State Conference of Student Governments at its fall meeting at Lenoir-Rhyne.

SCIENCE CLUB

The Science Club has a two-fold purpose: first, to promote and stimulate an interest in scientific fields through individual study and group projects and, second, to promote an increased interest in scientific and literary achievements among the high schools of Western North Carolina through the annual High School Field Day which the club sponsors each spring. This Field Day has grown in scope since its birth, when it was interested purely in scientific competition, until today when it embraces, while attracting 1000 high school students, the whole curricula offered by the public schools and extends into the field of athletics.

The Marshal's Club was organized on campus to provide ushers and marshals for campus functions. Lyceum programs, Little Theatre presentations, and other programs requiring ushers are capably taken care of by this group. Marshals are required mainly in the spring for graduation week exercises. One of their largest projects each year is their formal dance, given this year in March.

Improving the teaching field by insuring that teacher candidates have adequate knowledge of the hows and whys of the jobs they are entering is the aim of the F. T. A. To keep all the students informed on the latest educational methods, the club presents an annual chapel program on teaching. This year the program was a contrast of the techniques used fifty years ago with those used today.

The activities of the club are not limited to the educational sphere, but extend into the social field. A coffee hour, sponsored by the F. T. A., was given for the students in February.

Future Business Leaders of America

The F. B. L. A. works among the students of the business department in preparing them for the positions they will hold after leaving college. A placement service run by the club for graduates is of great value to those seeking jobs.

The local chapter was organized in 1948 by Dr. W. A. Ashbrook, the club sponsor.

The IRC is a small but active organization on the campus. The club this year was host to the annual meeting of the North Carolina Association of International Relations Clubs and also sent a delegation to the regional meeting held at Lincoln Memorial University. The organization, under the sponsorship of Dr. R. H. Taylor and Mr. M. R. Farley, takes as its purpose the study and discussion of international problems.

Joe Hester, past state vice-president and member of the local chapter, was North Carolina's representative on the 53-man IRC delegation from the United States and Canada which made a six-week study tour of Europe last summer.

The McDowell Music Club is dedicated to the study and appreciation of better music. This year was one of the most active for the club. Several receptions were sponsored by the group for visiting artists. In November, Evangeline Collins was honored in Moore parlors after her concert here. After the Robert Shaw Chorale program, January 30, the club was co-sponsor with the divisions of the music department of a reception-dance honoring the visiting artists.

After being practically inactive the first four months of the school year, the Players began work on their first play of 1951 in January. Their production, Good Housekeeping, was presented February 28, with Herb Hyde and Jean Rhodes in the leading roles, supported by a cast including Al Loekey, Baye Angel, Tinka Crawford, Harriet Franklin, Bill Reid, and David Raynor. The Players' second play was given in May.

Mrs. Crum was back with the dramatics group after a two-year absence, serving as co-director with Mr. Deans. Mrs. Crum directed the line work, while Deans supervised the stage design. The other two members of the Players' staff were Mrs. Gerald Eller, who had charge of make-up and costumes, and Mr. W. J. Bost, who planned the lighting and special effects.

In cooperation with the Fine Arts Department, the members of the club constructed an outdoor display of the Wise Men for the Christmas season. In February a field trip was made to Brasstown to visit the handicrafts school there.

The Home Economics Club's year began with a large increase in membership compared with previous years. Their first activities were several suppers for the club members. One of them was a Dutch supper with a visitor from Holland to this country as guest.

In the fall Mrs. Harrill and Christene Haynie attended a district home economics workshop in Georgia. A Sunday coffee hour in Moore parlor was sponsored by the group in the late fall.

Western Carolina Band

For the first time in the school's history the college has a marching band. Composed of thirty-five members, under the direction of Dr. David E. Price, the only band director in North Carolina holding a doctor's degree, the band has captured the interest of students and local folk, alike. It is completely outfitted in new uniforms and boasts $6,000 worth of new instruments.

The band performed at the home football games and traveled with the team to Carson-Newman and to the ETSTC game in Waynesville. Performances were presented at the Democratic Rally in Sylva and at the Cherokee Indian Fair. The group also played a concert for the Student Body in chapel.

Western Carolina Mixed Chorus

The 55-voice mixed chorus, under its third year with Professor Walter H. Cupp, Jr., as director, in addition to presenting concerts at the college, appeared before several of the high schools of Western North Carolina. The group sings both a capella and accompanied selections.

In the spring, the chorus for the second year participated in the college choral festival held at Mars Hill College. Mr. Cupp was chosen this year to direct the massed chorus which was composed of groups from the colleges of WNC.

For the student body the chorus presented a Christmas concert of sacred music and a concert for a chapel program during the spring. It also participated in the two-day folk festival held here, singing folk numbers especially arranged for the group by John Jacob Niles, noted American folklorist.

Square Dance Team

The Western Carolina Square Dance Team traveled to Greensboro to participate in an exhibition sponsored by the Promenaders Club of WCUNC. The WCTC team brought the stands to their feet and was the only team called back for an encore. While there the group was offered a chance to appear on a Television Broadcast the following day. The team took part in the two-day folk festival held at the college this spring. And also gave several exhibitions in this section of the state.

All girls taking physical education courses are automatically members of the W.A.A. Any other girls interested in the club's work may join.

The goal of the W. A. A. is participation of every girl student in some form of athletic activity. The intramural program carried out by the group is their main method of achieving this. Awards made through a point system are added incentives for activity.

The club's general program this year included sponsorship of the annual Sadie Hawkin's Day events. A race in front of Joyner at noon and a square dance that night in Breese Gymnasium provided enthusiastic entertainment for the student body.

Monogram Club

The Monogram Club is an organization composed of athletes who have won their letters in one or more of the college's major sports—football, basketball, baseball, or wrestling. The group pays for one athletic scholarship each year, provides the financial support for the wrestling team, and purchases the letter sweaters for the wrestlers. All prospective members must go through an elaborate initiation. To raise the funds for its expenses, the club has charge of the concessions at all home athletic contests. The members work free-of-charge at the concession stands.

Students majoring or minoring in Physical Education form the P. E. Club. The group plans to become affiliated with the National, District and State Associations for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Regular meetings are held, and frequently movies on various aspects of P. E. are shown. Last fall representatives of the local club attended the state physical education meeting at Chapel Hill and gave demonstrations of several P. E. skills.

The VARSITY

"We didn't set the woods on fire," Coach Tom Young remarked after the close of the 1950 football campaign, "but we had a lot of fun trying. And now we'll partially forget the past and work for the future."

The reference was made to the six games the Catamounts lost while winning only three. The whole business boils down to the fact that it just wasn't Western Carolina's year. We had a hustling ball club, but the opposition two-thirds of the time was stronger and better.

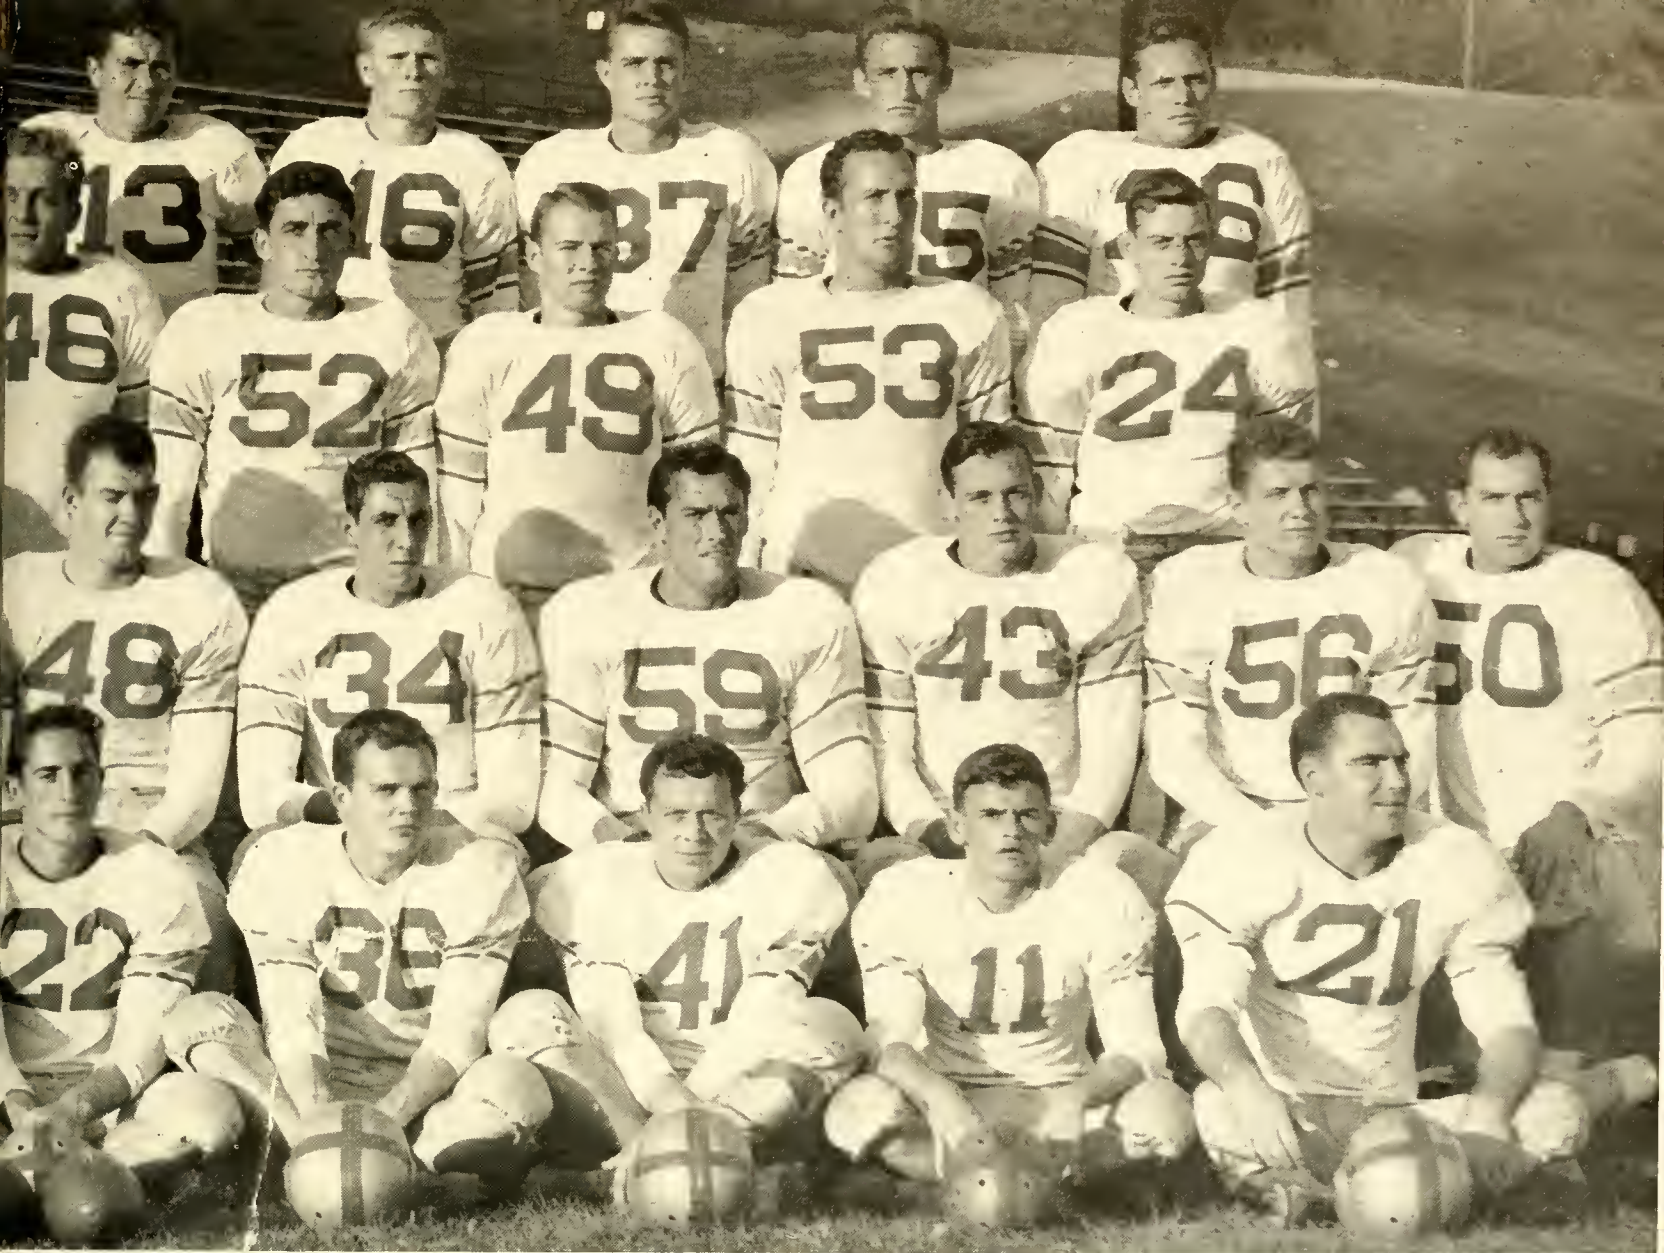

The poor season came on the heels of the Catamounts' first North State Conference championship (won in 1949) and that's what most folks couldn't understand. If the Cats won the championship in 1949, why didn't they do the same in '50? It just doesn't work out that way.

Coach Young has a ready answer to this sort of question. "A team doesn't lose an all-conference line, headed by a Little All-America guard, and expect to be a world-beater within a year."

That's just what happened to the Catamounts in the spring of 1950. No less than four all-North State Conference linemen marched down the aisle and received their degrees of graduation. Included were Center Hugh Constance, Tackles Dan Robinson and Buffalo Humphries and Guard Art Byrd. Byrd was the Little All-America. Besides this, team captain guard Von Ray Harris and a host of other stalwart players graduated, including Fullback Joe Hunt, Wingback Dewey Whitaker and other backfield men.

The big job was to fill in the gaps created by graduation and Young and his staff did the best job possible. Fellows like Clyde Bumgarner, Effie Stewart, Roy Church, Buddy Padgett, et cetera, were moved into the vacated positions. They did their best, but filling the shoes of men the calibre of those we lost is a big job. Lack of experience in some instances was a disadvantage to the team. The line was weaker than the championship wall of 1950 and those who knew that two and two in football make four the same as anywhere else, could see what was happening. But there were those who couldn't.

Tailback Pee Wee Hamilton and Fullback Ralph McConnell anchored the backfield. Both were all-conference performers and both did well during the season. Wingback Dick White turned in creditable showings as did other members of the backfield, but as a whole the vitally needed power to beat tougher opposition just wasn't there.

Young is pointing to next season. If the draft doesn't take away all prospects the Cats will field a good eleven—as good as can be expected from a war-riddled team. Some thirty-odd veterans participated in spring drills. These will form the nucleus for the high school grads coming in with a chance to get in one season at least before Uncle Sam beckons.

Young, and assistant coaches Jim Gudger, Pee Wee Jones and Dwight Ware, feel that the team of 1951 will be superior to that of 1950 due mainly to additions to the squad and to the weakening of other conference teams via the draft.

At any rate, the Cats are out to better their 1950 record of six losses in nine games, and the chances of success at present stand better than 50-50.

Here's the way the season went in 1950:

BASKETBALL

Front: Carter, Strachla, Taylor, Bennett, Williamson, Foster. . . . Back: Coach Gudger, Rogers, Martin, White, Pardue, Fowler, Wike, Johnson, Underwood, manager.

In basketball as in football the Catamounts had a losing season, but so far as team attitude and school spirit was concerned the cage campaign was a huge success.

During the regular season the Cats won only six of 25 games. Two of these victories were over conference foes, gaining a berth in the North State tournament at Statesville for the Cats.

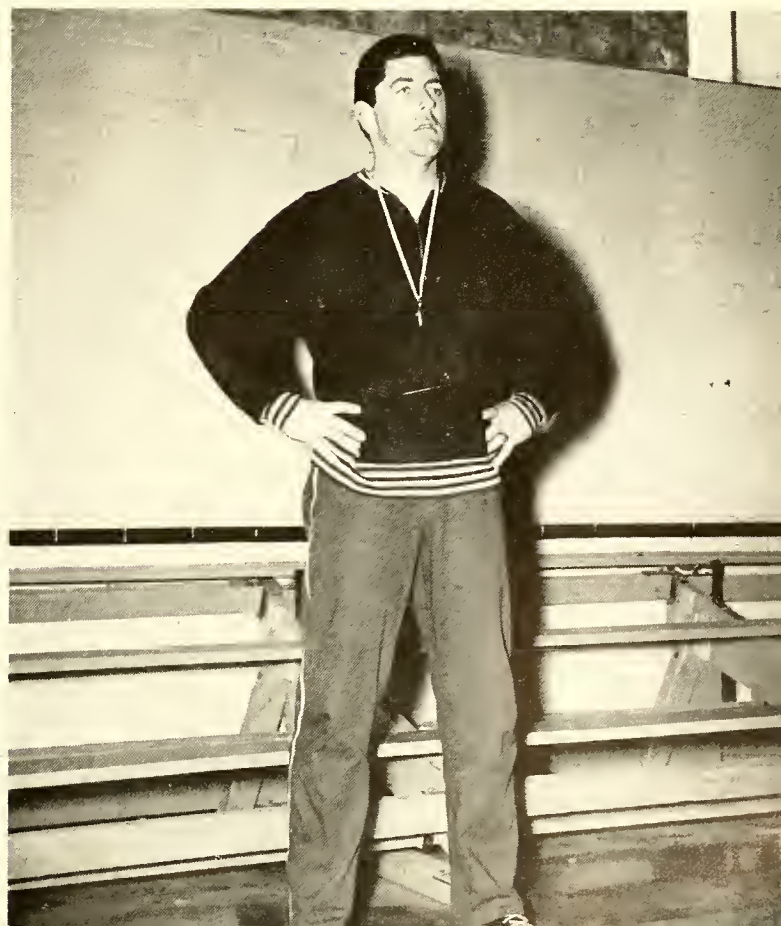

Here, however, the boys bowed out in the opening round, losing to High Point 86 to 80.

Highlight of the season came in the second game against North Georgia College, three games before the end of the season, when Ronald Rogers poured in his 458th point, breaking the all-time North State Conference individual scoring record for a single season. Ronnie Cates of the 1947 championship team at Elon College previously held the record.

Credit goes to Coach Jim Gudger for doing a fine job. He was handicapped through the season because of lack of height, but the Cats kept plugging away and eventually gained the berth in the tournament.

Here it was that Rogers scored 24 points against High Point, shoving his mark to 528 for the season—a record that should stand for time to come. It was this showing, before a majority of coaches and writers around the state, that gathered all-conference and all-state laurels for him.

Gudger looks on at practice.

Rogers, WCTC's All-State Forward.

ALL CONFERENCE, ALL-STATE

Through the first half of the basketball season, Ronald Rogers was just a high-scoring forward for a losing team. After about 10 games or so someone took notice and cracked that Ron might break the North State Conference scoring mark if he kept up his current pace.

Fans on all sides began to take notice and soon it was sure that Rogers would break some sort of a mark. He was breezing along with an average of 20 points per game. Finally the true record was established. Ronnie Cates of Elon set the mark at 457 points in 1947 when the Christians defeated the Catamounts in the conference tournament at High Point.

With three games to go Rogers drove through his 458th point, breaking the conference record and the school record which was previously held by Jim Gudger, Rogers' coach. From there it was only a matter of adding to this record.

Through the last two games and the tournament contest against High Point, Rogers maintained the pace, finishing the season with a total of 528 points for 26 games—an average of 20.3 per game and good enough to land for him berths on the all-conference team and the all-state combination which listed Ranzino of State, Groat of Duke and other All-Americans.

Rogers is only a little man among basketball men, but he has a sharp eye for the basket and an accurate hand with which to toss in the ball.

Near Miss: Bozo against Atlanta Y.

THE ART OF MUSCLE-BENDING, WCTC STYLE

The most successful team on the campus this school year turned out to be Coach Don Thames' squad of Catamount wrestlers. In winning six out of nine meets the Cats turned out to be one of the strongest teams in the state. It was one of the best seasons enjoyed by WCTC matmen since before the war.

Well-rounded in all weights and with reserve power capable of handling part-time chores, the Catamounts defeated such teams as the Carolina Freshmen (twice), Atlanta YMCA, Knoxville YMCA, and several others. They lost to Appalachian, one of the all-time powers of the nation's collegiate wrestling, North Carolina State's Wolfpack and Emory University of Atlanta, Ga.

Though Thames was a student, doing coaching on the side, he receives credit for doing a tough job well. The boys were well-grounded in the fundamentals of the game. Of course, they had plenty of muscle power to spare, but it was the background that helped to pull them through in several cases.

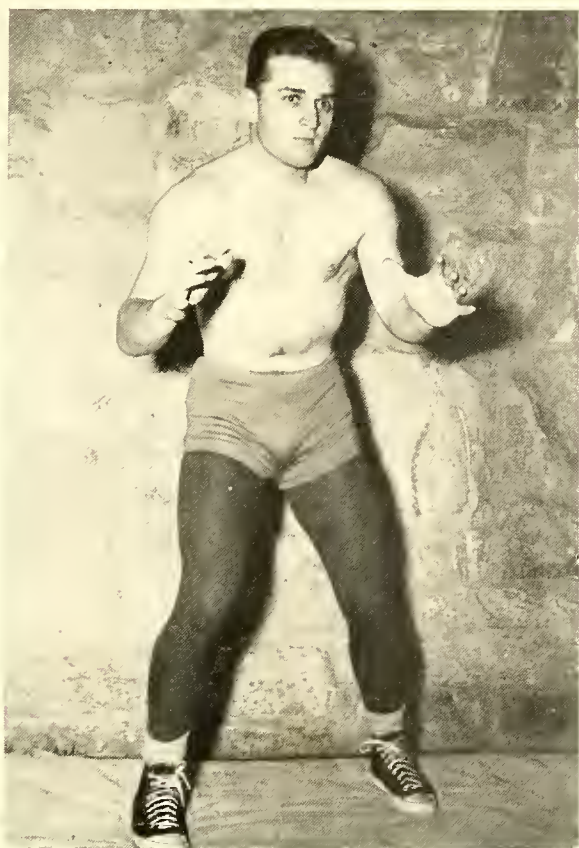

Many of the matmen will be back for next year, Uncle Sam permitting. Thames won't be around to coach them, but plenty of material will be on hand for the new mentor to work with. WCTC wrestling, it seems, has gained a place in the eyes of the state's athletic circles.
